

TABLE OF CONTENTS

|   |           |
|---|-----------|
| Template Basics .....            | 1  |
| What is the template language, really?  | 2         |
| Template chains and template types      | 3         |
| Application templates                   | 4         |
| Which application chain should I use?   | 5         |
| The Template Language .....      | 9  |
| The template language                   | 9         |
| Registering templates                   | 11        |
| Starting with #TEMPLATE                 | 12        |
| Template code sections                  | 14        |
| Template prompts                        | 14        |
| Template symbols                        | 16        |
| Template code                           | 17        |
| A final word on application templates   | 17        |
| Introducing Code Templates ..... | 19 |
| The CloseCurrentWindow code template    | 20        |
| The InitiateThread code template        | 23        |
| Generating the code                     | 26        |
| Writing Code Templates .....     | 29 |
| The source code                         | 29        |
| Making sure the code works              | 32        |
| Designing the template                  | 32        |
| The EasyMessage template                | 33        |
| Creating a new chain                    | 33        |
| The simplest EasyMessage template       | 36        |
| Summary                                 | 39        |
| Source code                             | 39        |

|  |           |
|--|-----------|
| Enhancing Code Templates .....                          | 41 |
| The template   | 41        |
| Adding documentation   | 42        |
| Adding optional prompts  | 44        |
| Adding an icon pick list                                       | 45        |
| Adding button choices  | 47        |
| The brute force method   | 49        |
| Source code  | 51        |
| Using #GROUPs .....                                     | 53 |
| Applying #GROUPs   | 56        |
| The complete template  | 61        |
| But is it better?  | 63        |
| Source code  | 64        |
| Template Writing Made Easy .....                        | 65 |
| An Approach To Template Development                            | 66        |
| Template source files  | 68        |
| Creating an #EXTENSION   | 69        |
| Source code  | 72        |
| Understanding Templates And Embeds .....                | 73 |
| The Template Registry  | 73        |
| Template Files   | 74        |
| Application/Module Templates                                   | 75        |
| Procedure Templates  | 75        |
| Control Templates  | 77        |
| Code Templates   | 79        |
| Extension Templates  | 80        |
| Group Templates  | 80        |
| Templates and Embed Points                                     | 80        |
| What About Object-Orientation?                                 | 81        |
| Templates And Embeds: Finding The Balance                      | 82        |
| Another Introduction To Writing Templates: Part 1 ..... | 85 |
| Dipping Your Toe In  | 86        |
| Template Types   | 87        |
| Beg, Borrow Or Steal   | 88        |

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| Taking The Plunge  | 90         |
| Source code  | 91         |
| Another Introduction To Writing Templates: Part 2 ..... | 93  |
| Borrow-And-Adapt, Continued                                    | 93         |
| User Involvement   | 94         |
| At “Here”, Embed This ...                                      | 96         |
| Fine Tuning  | 97         |
| Wrapping It All Up   | 100        |
| Wait, There’s More!  | 100        |
| Source code  | 103        |
| Using The Template Wizardron .....                      | 105 |
| A Case In Point  | 107        |
| Design Considerations  | 109        |
| The Template Wizardron   | 110        |
| Using The Template Wizardron                                   | 110        |
| You Pays Your Money, You Takes Your Choice                     | 111        |
| ”Writing” a Template   | 113        |
| Good Stuff I Learned Along the Way                             | 115        |
| Specific to General  | 118        |
| Summary  | 118        |

